

SAFETY AND HEALTH FELLOW
ADVOCACY
WASHINGTON, D.C. [HEADQUARTERS]

Are you passionate about economic fairness and social justice? Do you want to improve the lives of working people and strengthen the labor movement? If you answered, “Yes!,” then the AFL-CIO may be the right place for you. We are the largest federation of labor unions in the United States, and our team of dynamic professionals is dedicated to growing worker power and ensuring every working person has a voice on the job. When you work at the AFL-CIO, you’re more than just an individual employee—you’re helping to lead a movement with a proud history and a bright future ahead.

This is a temporary, grant-funded position, approximately February through July/August.

OVERVIEW OF RESPONSIBILITIES:

The AFL-CIO Safety and Health Department uses evidence to advocate for stronger worker safety and health protections and worker rights primarily through federal and state regulatory and legislative activities. This team plays a leadership role in the safety and health community in the development of safety and health policies and initiatives. It has broad responsibilities and is involved in a wide range of safety and health issues and initiatives with unions, labor bodies, allied activist groups and academic, public health and medical experts.

DESCRIPTION OF DUTIES:

- Analyze the impact of regulatory safeguards and their role in protecting workers from hazardous working conditions;
- Develop materials that humanize the impact of these safeguards on working people’s lives and livelihoods;
- Highlight disparities and intersectionality of hazardous working conditions with other key and emerging issues;
- Conduct research and write comments on proposed regulations;
- Assist in data collection and analysis;
- Monitor development and respond to requests from affiliates and state and local federated bodies on safety and health issues; and
- Perform other duties as required.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- Be a strong writer and communicator with a deep commitment to and interest in workplace safety and health issues and worker rights;
- Hold a minimum of a bachelor’s degree in public health or relevant discipline;
- Be well-organized with strong attention to detail;
- Ability to use storytelling and connect policy with real life impacts;

- Strong working knowledge and experience with Microsoft Excel and Google Drive; experience developing multimedia products is a plus;
- Previous experience with unions, safety and health coalitions, community organizations allied with labor or other labor-related organizations is a plus; and
- Fresh perspectives and creative approaches are welcome.

This position is not benefits eligible.
